

Tip of the week! 21 maart 2020

Singing is about telling a story, YOUR story. Even if the music and the lyrics are not yours and the song is already performed a thousand times by others before you, you want to make your own version.

You would never want to simply duplicate an existing version of the song. Right? There is no reason for it. Look closer at the song and you know exactly what it is that made you choose this particular song, that's a great first step..

Start by asking yourself:

Why did you pick this song? Is it the atmosphere, the sound, the rhythm, the lovely singer or the lyrics? Or a combination

What about the lyric is something you've always wanted to say? What about the melody let's your emotions soar? What about the rhythm makes your body want to move, or your heart to expand, or turn you thoughtful or introspective?

Write this down and sing the song for yourself. Close your eyes and see the pictures in your head, everything is just fine, be creative, feel free!

Now put the original recording beside and make your own.

Have fun!
